with 582 votes at Harris and 7 at Blair. William Blumenstock received 318 votes, 306 at Harris and nine at Blair; and Henry P. Scott's total was 160, with 153 at Harris and seven at Blair.

Observers noted heavy traffic at the polling places throughout the seven-hour voting period from noon to 7 p.m. with election workers stopping momentarily to check off their lists and then driving away to get other voters.

It was near 10 p.m. before the unofficial results were announced by the board office with the completion of the count at Harris school. The Blair school tally was known about 15 minutes earlier.

Intense interest in the Madison election resulted from last fall's racial boycotts of the school and the organization of parents groups. Watson and Scott were active in both parent groups, while Negro parents supported Rev. Calmes and Charles Johnson.

New Rates on Distance Calls Within Illinois

Rate changes affecting "within the state" long-distance telephone calls in Illinois went into effect yesterday.

The new rates will apply throughout Illinois, which is served by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Illinois Telephone Co. and other telephone firms.

The new Illinois intrastate rate schedule will make long-distance rates on calls within the state more comparable to interstate calls between states.

The latter long-distance rates have been in effect since Nov. 1, 1967.

The new tariffs provide rate reductions on evening station-to-station calls of 56 to 124 miles. Also, night rates will be extended over longer calling periods on station-to-station calls. And the night rate will be extended on person-to-person calls.

Night rates will also apply all day on Saturday and Sunday, as well as New Year's Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

There will be an increase in short-haul calls on distances of up to 25 miles. The initial period on 25-cent calls will be changed from four to three minutes.

A new "late night" rate is being introduced on customer-dialed intrastate calls of over 40 miles placed between midnight and 7 a.m. The maximum charge for initial period intrastate "late night" calls will be 40 cents; present maximum charge for such a call is 50 cents.

Also under the new tariff, a minimum charge of 25 cents for special-operator-handled calls will apply. These include calls charged to a third number, credit card calls and special reversed-charge calls.

A. O. Smith Board Elects 2 Officers

A. O. Smith Corp. board of directors meeting Thursday at Milwaukee elected Charles H. LeClaire and Richard A. Wendorf company vice-presidents.

The board also declared a regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents per share, payable May 15, to stockholders of record April 30.

In announcing the board actions, L. B. Smith, chairman and executive officer, said that LeClaire, 48, will continue to have responsibility for employee and public relations. He has been corporate director of those functions since last August.

Wendorf, 42, who has been director of procurement for the Milwaukee-based company since September 1965, continues with those responsibilities, according to Smith.

Stop Sign Charge Filed

Herschel L. Pate, Caseyville, was charged with a stop sign violation at 7:30 a.m. Friday at Ponton road and Franklin avenue.

Col. Charles E. Hoskin III, Granite City Army Depot commander, and Capt. William Savage, Army Community Service officer, shared honors in a ribbon-cutting ceremony opening the new Army Community Service Center at the depot last week.

Others participating were 2nd Lt. Robert White; 2nd Lt. DeWitt Vance, depot adjutant; Miss Diana Huskamp, Army Community Service coordinator; Mrs. Ruby Overbeck, executive secretary of the Red Cross; Mrs. David V. Fox; Mrs. Hoskin; Frank Collins, acting director for administration; Lt. Col. David V. Fox, deputy commander; and C. Wayne Banks, acting comptroller.

There always has been an Army tradition of self-help and looking after its own. Col. Hoskin said, and the Army Community Service program, established in July 1965 reflects this tradition.

$30,000 Aided
During the first two years of the program, more than 430,000 persons received assistance. Today there are more than 130 Army Community Service centers at major Army installations in the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Panama Canal Zone, Europe, Okinawa and Japan.

The program satisfies the needs for a centrally located, responsive and professionally based service to assist the members of Army communities to meet personal and family problems that are beyond the scope of their own resources.

The centers provide the installation commander with an organized system for bringing together all resources available to him on and off post for the relief of problems having an adverse effect upon the performance, morale and retention of his personnel.

Information Clearinghouse
The centers do not duplicate or duplicate the services normally furnished by installation staffs, but they assist and support command efforts to resolve the soldier's personal problems by channeling those problems to the military or civilian agency that can best handle them. The service center serves primarily as an information clearinghouse and coordinator.

Depending on local needs, Army Community Service centers may provide information on financial assistance, availability of housing, transportation, relocation of families, medical and dental care, legal assistance and other matters as aid to the handicapped.

Whenever a center is established, it translates into concrete realization the three parts of its theme, "Self-Help, Service and Stability," which are essential to the high morale of soldiers and the well-being of their families.

Kahoks Outdistance
Trojan Track Team

The 113-14 defeat that the Collinsville Kahok track team handed the visiting Madison high school Trojans Thursday had only one bright spot, in the view of MHS Coach Harland Scheibel.

"By running against a school that had outclassed all the way, we will be in a lot better shape when it comes time to run against Midwestern Conference teams in our own conference meet May 14," he noted.

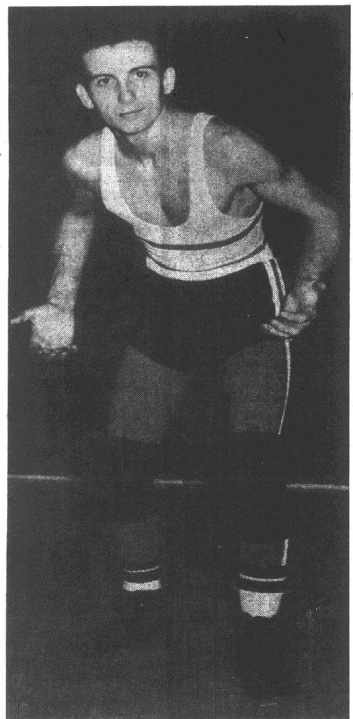

Point scorers for the Trojans were Vann Ford, second in high hurdles, second in high jump and third in low hurdles; Tecumseh Holmes, second in the 440-yard dash; Jim Stout third in high hurdles and third in pole vault; Oscar Hampton, third in the mile run; and Larry Mosby third in long jump.

The Trojans will run against Cahokia at 2:15 p.m. tomorrow at the Comanches' track.

Inter-City Nines Ready
To Launch 38th Season

Dal Maxwell is helping set the pace for the defending world champion baseball Cardinals in the five-day-old campaign, and one of the leagues in which he formerly played, Inter-City, will soon have its 1968 season rolling.

The 38th season of the Southwestern Illinois Inter-City Baseball League is set to get under way this Sunday, April 21, with games at Granite City, East St. Louis, Collinsville and Maryville.

Both local teams, Mercer Funeral Home and Granite City Steel Credit Union, will play their home games on Diamond No. 1 at Wilson Park.

This Sunday's game at Wilson Park is set for 2 p.m. and will pair Credit Union of the Blue Division with the Troy Red Birds of the Red Division.

Other pairings for the opening day send Mercer of the Blue Division to East St. Louis for a contest with the Polish-American War Veterans of the Red Division; Pochontas Braves of the Blue Division to Collinsville to meet Mollitor Motors of the Red Division; and East Alton Machinists of the Blue Division to Maryville to oppose the Red Sox, a Red Division team.

Kaera, Bellm Advancing
Maxwell is one of many players who have competed in both the Inter-City League and major leagues.

Current professional prospects include Paul Kaera, Granite City Sacred Heart product now with the St. Louis Cardinals organization, and Larry Bellm of the East Alton club, who is with the Boston Red Sox farm system.

Mercer now includes many of the former Hearts players. The league has two teams less than last year.

Managers are Adrian Rains of Mercer and Ralph Fricker of Credit Union.

A 7-game schedule is planned for each of the eight squads, followed by playoffs.

Jacks Players
Last 33 Hours

Granite City high school students, Jim Monroe and Lemmie Giles, both 16, may have established a new world record for playing "jacks," when they discontinued the marathon contest at 6:45 a.m. Friday—33 hours and 15 minutes after the game started at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The pair claimed the world marathon title, at least until evidence is produced that the 33-hour playing time has been surpassed by others. So far, no record for the feat has been uncovered.

Mrs. James (Suzette) Steel, 21, of 2616 Forest avenue, at whose home the event was staged, stayed in the game 25 hours. Three other teenagers, Jerry Newman, Richard Stagg and Bobby Lipscomb, also dropped by the wayside, leaving Monroe and Giles to finish the ball-bouncing and jacks-snatching contest several hours later.

Slater Truck Employees On Wildcat Strike

Employees of the M. C. Slater Trucking Co., 2200 West Chain of Rocks road, walked off the job in a wildcat strike this morning, but company officials expected it to be settled today.

Negotiations were underway by M. C. Slater, company president, and union officials. The reason for the walkout was not disclosed, but the company said it received a telegram from the Teamsters national union declaring it to be an unauthorized strike.

Three pickets were parading in front of the company today. Some of the employees are members of Granite City Teamsters Local 525.

Boilermakers in New Protest over Physical Exams

A requirement by A. O. Smith Corp. that 300 men who are to be recalled to work under physical examinations has been protested by Boilermakers Union Local 575 and resulted in new discussions between company and union officials, it was learned today.

The union protests reportedly were under discussion at the Granite City plant this morning in a meeting attended by Mayor Donald Partney of Granite City who in mid-March spearheaded a citizen's committee that aided in settlement of the 53-year union strike.

Union officials could not be reached for comment this morning. The company issued this statement:

"We plan to recall about 300 persons to return to work to man a third line (auto frames assembly line) on April 29."

"It has been a long-standing policy of the company, that any employee who has been away from work three months or more, for any reason, be given a physical examination before he returns to work."

The union has objected to the physical examination because most of the A. O. Smith work force, that returned to two plant assembly lines on March 27, were not required to undergo physical examinations.

A plant official pointed out that the return to work on March 27 was under the three-month requirement.

Four Local

trators and medical technicians. The members serve on active duty with regular Air Force personnel two days a month and go on active duty as a unit for two weeks each year.

First sergeant of the 82nd Squadron, James Roller Jr., 37, is a 12-year veteran of the Air Force Reserve, having joined the outfit in 1956. Previously, he served three years in the Army, which included an overseas tour in Germany before his discharge in 1954.

He and his wife, Wilma, are the parents of four children, James III, 13, Debbie, 12, Charles, 10, and John, 3. Sgt. Roller has been employed as a painter at Granite City Steel for the past 13 years.

Mr. Roller told the Press-Record Friday that her husband doesn't seem to mind going away for some time. "In fact," he said, "he's had his suitcase packed for the last two months."

The reservist's wife commented, "After his Army discharge he waited two years before he joined us here as we have accepted the idea that whatever comes will be... and this is it."

An aeromedical technician with the squadron, S/Sgt. Paul Halbert, 27, joined the 82nd Squadron five years ago. He has been thoroughly trained to provide in-flight and hospital medical care for the sick and wounded.

Halbert is a graduate of Granite City high school and Southern Illinois University, from where he received a Bachelor of Science degree in Marketing in 1964. He is married to the former Miss Donna Ward and they have a daughter, Lori Anne, 2½.

He began his career at the Press-Record as a high school student, working after school hours, and later joined the newspaper's advertising staff.

Halbert commented that his unit is in top shape—training wise—and is ready to assume an active role.

During reservist training, he has worked in most phases of hospital duty at Scott Air Force Base hospital and participated on in-flight medical training.

Airman First Class Roger Tracey, 23, is a native of Midlothian, Ill., near Chicago. He was married last June to the former Miss Joyce Mason of Granite City and the couple moved to the local community on Thanksgiving Day.

Tracey completed his six-month active duty status with the Air Force Reserve in March 1967 and was assigned to the 81st Squadron at O'Hare Field, Chicago.

Three months ago, an opening occurred in the 82nd Squadron and he requested and received a transfer from the Chicago area.

The airman's assignment with the unit's administrative branch includes processing and recording in-flight and en route patients. He has been employed at General Steel Industries for the past year and recently was transferred to the plant's safety department, where he was trained as a safety supervisor.

A five-and-a-half year member of the 82nd Medical Squadron, Staff Sgt. Slaby, 27, is due to complete his reserve status in about six months. He is a former medic, now serving in the unit's administrative department.

His wife, Arlene, said today the reservist has "halfway been expecting a call-up for several months, but it still is a surprise," she added. They have one child, Jeffrey, 2½ years.

Until recently, Sgt. Slaby was an inspector in the State of Illinois Traffic Department. Presently, he is working with the department's interstate highway division, determining locations and erecting interstate directional signs.

Schindewolf attended local schools and has been employed at the steel mill for seven

He will serve as deputy to Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, who was appointed by President Johnson to succeed Gen. William C. Westmoreland, who is returning to the U. S. as chief of staff of the Army in July.

Gen. Goodpaster was born in Granite City in 1915 and attended elementary schools in East Granite. He was graduated from Granite City high school, then attended McKendree College at Lebanon from 1931 to 1933 when he was appointed to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

He was graduated from West Point in 1939 with a second lieutenant's commission and began his military career with the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers at Panama. He took the 48th Engineer Combat Battalion to Africa in world war II, commanding it in Africa and Italy.

Gen. Goodpaster returned to the U. S. in 1944 where he was assigned to general staff work. He then attended Princeton University three years to obtain a master's degree in engineering and a doctorate in international relations. He most recently has been serving as commandant of the National

GEN. GOODPASTER

War College and has served as the assistant to the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The general telephoned his mother following his appointment, and Mrs. Goodpaster said the appointment came as a great surprise both to herself and her son.

She said he had been wounded twice in world war II and "I pray he can come through this all right. He has been preparing for it all of his life."

Mrs. Goodpaster said her son told her he will be with Averell Harriman, special presidential envoy assigned to pursue peace efforts in Vietnam until he assumes his new duties as deputy commander in early July.

Grace Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding Saturday evening of Miss Starla Grover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess A. Grover, 111 South Market Street, Hartford, and Gary Johnston, son of Mrs. Alice Johnston, 2936 Dogwood drive and the late Bertram Johnston.

A double-ring candlelight ceremony was performed by Rev. Clifford Mueller at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Mary Parchment, organist, provided a program of wedding selections and accompanied Mrs. Mary Miles, soloist, who sang "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father who escorted her down the white carpeted aisle, wore a floor-length gown of white silk organza, over taffeta. A-line in style the dress featured a rounded neckline, long sleeves tapered to the wrists. The bodice and cuffs on the sleeves were trimmed with re-embroidered Alencon lace, as was the Chapel length detachable train.

Her Chapel length veil of bridal illusion was secured with a forward headpiece, and she carried a bridal bouquet of stephanotis and orchids.

Miss Cheryl Grover, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Charlene Watson, bridesmaid, appeared in identical dresses of maize silk organza over taffeta. A-line designed, they were fashioned with a cowl collar and long sleeves. The rounded front neckline formed a V-shape in the back.

Their short nose tip veils were in matching shades held in place with tiny bows and they carried a Colonial bouquet of daisies.

The groom chose his brother, Bob Johnston, as his best man, and Charles Cook as groomsmen. Ushers were Leslie Grover, a cousin of the bride and Denny Thurston.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover entertained wedding guests at a reception held immediately following the ceremony in the basement of the church.

The former Miss Grover is employed in the offices of McDonnell-Douglas Aircraft Corp., and Mr. Johnston is a junior student at Park College and is also employed at McDonnell-Douglas. The newlywed couple will reside locally.

Illinois in 1818-Epidemic, Flood Plagued Settlers at Shawneetown

(From the files of the Grand City Press-Record)

One of the first banks in Illinois was located at Shawneetown and was built of logs.

A traveler who visited Shawneetown in 1818 found about 30 log houses there.

"The chief occupation of the inhabitants is the salt trade," he wrote.

"There is here a United States land office, and a log bank is just established."

"The chief cashier of this establishment was engaged in cutting logs at the moment of my arrival."

The first white settlement at Shawneetown is said to have been in 1800. A jail was erected in 1810 and a courthouse in 1815.

The land on which the town was located belonged to the United States until 1814, when lots were sold at auction to residents. The bidding was brisk, and the lots sold for good prices.

Two years later, however, the ground was inundated by the river, even as it was frequently since that time.

In 1816, lot owners petitioned Congress to relieve them from paying further assessments on their lots.

They said they had purchased the lots at an excessive price and that "within a few months after the sale of the said lots, our town was visited by a most destructive epidemic, which nearly depopulated the place."

"Immediately after, in the same winter, the whole of the town on the river was inundated, the water being from 10 to 20 feet over the whole of the town."

"Alarmed and disheartened, many persons have ceased to improve and have abandoned the place, and others have been deterred from settling on Salt creek was the most important factor in the early development of Shawneetown, together with the location of the land office there."

The salt was sold to settlers all over that section of the United States.

'Division of Sentiment in Nation, Government Nearly Bankrupt....'

(Carter County News-Times, Morehead City, N. C.)

"Worst of all was division of sentiment in the nation, church bells were tolled and flags hung at half mast when the declaration of war was announced."

"Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut refused to allow their militia to be ordered out as Congress required."

"During the entire war the New England section, which had accumulated half the specie of the country, did all in its power to obstruct the financial operations of the government."

"The government was nearly bankrupt, the blockade having cut off almost all the revenue from customs duties, and New England having refused to contribute from its share of the purchase of loans."

"The last loan offered had failed, and all banks suspended specie payment...."

"Disaffection to the national government had been steadily increasing."

"Many acts of both governors and legislatures regarded as traitorous...."

"While the foregoing resembles conditions in the United States today, the quotations are from James Truslow Adams' history of the United States, The March of Democracy, War of 1812."

Keeping Poisons Out of Crops

(American Chemical Society)

A way to reduce the absorption of pesticides by crops is suggested in the "Journal of Agricultural and Food Chemistry."

Scientists at the University of Wisconsin have shown in laboratory tests that activated carbon, introduced into the soil, can eliminate 96% to 99% of the pesticide residues from the plants, Dr. E. Paul Lichtenstein reports.

Although the results are less impressive in field tests (30% to 71% reduction for aldrin and dieldrin, 16% to 70% for heptachlor and heptachlor epoxide), the use of carbon for this purpose appears to be practical.

Reasons for poor results in the field tests included poorer mixing of carbon with soil, the penetration of some plant roots between the treated areas and the effects of weather, and the necessity of cultivating the soil.

Many crops contain carbon in land that is already contaminated with pesticides, Dr. Lichtenstein points out.

"Treatment of the soil with carbon could reduce insecticidal residues in crops to such an extent that a farmer could use a soil of abnormally high insecticidal content."

The increased absorption also helps prevent insecticide run off into other areas. Unfortunately, although the carbon process does reduce the amount of pesticides in the soil less toxic to insects.

The basic plan of the research was to take treated and untreated soil and see how much of the insecticide could be recovered from the soils and from the plants growing in them. The results indicated that the carbon tied up the insecticides and chemically bound them in the soil.

Although treating the soil with carbon might permit higher levels of pesticide application, further experiments are necessary to determine under what conditions plants could be grown with no measurable residues in them.

Crops used in the study were peas, carrots, potatoes and radishes. The insecticides tested were aldrin, dieldrin, heptachlor and heptachlor epoxide.

Co-authors of the report were Dr. Lichtenstein, Dr. Kenneth R. Schulz, also of the University of Wisconsin. The work was supported by the University's Department of Entomology and was supported by the U. S. Public Health Service Communicable Disease Center.

How to Select Investment Broker

By THOMAS E. O'HARA

Chairman, National Association of Investment Clubs

Q. I'm such a babe in the woods about investing that I've put off going to a broker for fear of appearing foolish. How can I pick a good broker?

A. Picking a good broker is important, but first you're serious about investing, there is plenty written on the subject to help you become better informed. A place to start would be to subscribe to magazines like "Better Investing," "Barron's," "Business Week" and other business publications. And there are a number of other good ones.

In addition, you will find many books on investing in your local library. There are also night school and college extension courses that should help you to become better informed.

Now, about selecting a broker. Picking the right one is important. Personally, I like one who understands the value of long-term investing and who does not emphasize short-term trading.

I like a man who has access to good research material and who passes it along to his customers. I also like a man who will take time to get me informed.

Have you a question about investing? Mr. O'Hara, editor of the monthly magazine "Better Investing," will answer as many as possible in his column. Correspondence should be sent to T. E. O'Hara, National Association of Investment Clubs, Dept. S, Box 1086, Detroit, Mich. 48231.

Future of Townships An Issue In State Action On County Board Representation

As noted here early this month, the new U. S. Supreme Court reapportionment ruling needs to be implemented at the Illinois legislative session in July by setting up procedural guidelines for local-level government, particularly county boards.

At present, every township is entitled to at least one supervisor, who not only helps govern the township but serves as the county board. Larger townships have a representative for each 7500 residents. This tends to give a slight advantage to rural areas; if the mechanism is changed, the pendulum could swing toward urban dominance.

It seems doubtful that the existing system could be revised enough to comply with the one-man, one-vote objective. To preserve it, there might have to be a formula for supervisors to cast weighted votes, much like party committees now do in county political conventions.

It is more likely that townships will be separated from the county board, with their supervisors limited to township matters. County board members would then be elected either countywide, perhaps as a three-tier commission outlined in the state constitution, or from some new type of district. Or, townships themselves could be revamped to cover more territory, with populations equal to those of all other townships within the same county.

Dismantling of townships entirely would be an extreme step, necessitating new methods of maintaining roads, distributing welfare funds and performing other tasks. It is a tempting solution to the obstructionism by some officials toward orderly development of municipalities, but it could lead to the needs of unincorporated areas receiving insufficient governmental attention.

The issue may become one of the hottest ever handled at Springfield. Continued existence of the township form of government is at stake, and the combined township officials of this state form a strong lobbying group.

A lieutenant general currently commanding the National War College in Washington, the native Granite City and Granite City high school graduate is to be nominated for the four-star rank of full general by President Johnson.

No stranger to the inner circles of government, Gen. Goodpaster is eminently qualified for his new assignment as well as for other important duties in the future. As his mother commander, "He has been preparing for this all his life."

Attending McKendree College at Lebanon for two years before entering West Point, from where he graduated in 1939, the local officer was wounded in combat twice during world war II. After commanding an engineer battalion in Italy in that war, he earned at Princeton University the degrees of master of engineering and doctor of international relations. Next came duty at the Pentagon on the advance study committee of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

European armament problems occupied him next as special assistant to Gen. Gruenher, who was deputy to Gen. Eisenhower, supreme allied commander in Europe. Beginning in 1954 he was staff secretary and military aide to President Eisenhower, working closely with the president. He reached three-star rank in 1964 while serving as assistant to Gen. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The present joint chiefs and Defense Secretary Clifford, committee of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Goodpaster as their choice to succeed Gen. Abrams as he moves to the top Vietnam command. Replaced by Gen. Abrams, Gen. Goodpaster will be the new Army chief of staff.

It is not unique that many Quad-Cities are serving in Vietnam and that more are going. But few communities ever have the distinction of seeing such sweeping responsibility placed on one of their graduates.

Attendance at Grassroots Taxing Body Meetings Helps Democracy Function

How will you spend your evenings this week?

One might devote to attending a session of one of the local taxing agencies would be time well spent.

The meetings of local-level governing bodies during the week are listed on this page each Monday under the heading of "Grassroots Government."

At today's list offers one or more meetings each day—a Granite City council meeting and the Venice school board reorganization this evening, Madison city council tomorrow night, Madison county board of supervisors Wednesday morning, Madison school board reorganization Thursday evening and Venice city council Friday night.

Meetings of 13 Quad-City area agencies having taxing powers total 20 to 22 each month, an average of five a week.

The Press-Record is present to report the transactions to those unable to attend, but too often our representative is the only spectator.

This is not always the best of the issue. It does, however, particularly at the grassroots level, one's home community.

Citizens' attendance at public meetings does not merely inform them of the caliber and procedures of local government; their presence tends to upgrade officials' performance in quality and efficiency.

Surprise your public officials this week. Appear in person at their deliberations and then make it an occasional practice or, even better, a regular habit.

Some of the children were talking, talking. Many were laughing, talking. We were at peace with one another.

I saw all this as I was driving along my way, but because I decided I had to turn my car and return to the playground.

At that moment I was without pen and paper or camera or a witness to see what I had seen and felt.

These children knew how to make and keep peace among themselves, keep their hearts good in their hearts.

As I drove away from the playground, I said a prayer, wishing that I was young again and that the world was young once more.

I prayed that we could be in a playground, with good thoughts in our minds and hearts, with a better world.

We can't let the children of the world down.

We have to give them hope and a reason to try. We have to give them the world at peace.

WORLD OF PEACE, HOPE

To the Editor:

I was riding past a playground on a Sunday afternoon, April 7. I saw the world at peace.

There were children playing. Some were sitting, some were standing and some were taking part in a game of baseball.

Surprise Radio-Phone Call from Vietnam

A surprise radio-telephone call from Vietnam, received last week, missed by four days a similar call made one year ago by the same local serviceman to his family.

Seaman Leo L. Kalpis III, 22, currently on his third tour of duty in Vietnam, called his parents and sisters from Camp Hoskins, Vietnam, where he is stationed with a Special Forces group, consisting of Marines, Seabees and Naval personnel. The camp is located 12 miles north of Da Nang.

The sailor was assigned to Vietnam for the third time on Dec. 10 and is expected to remain there until discharged from the service on Aug. 31. His initial tour was made aboard the USS Calvert while the vessel was operating in Vietnamese waters in 1965. The following year, he was stationed at Camp Hoskins for several months on shore duty. Seaman Kalpis said he was working the night shift at the time of the call, which was logged as 1:45 a.m. Vietnam time. Here it was 11:45 a.m. He commented to his mother, "I'm being as good and careful as it's possible to be over here."

He voiced special congratulations to a younger sister, Felicia Dorothy Kalpis, who will make her first communion May 12 at Sacred Heart Church, and added his congratulations to another sister, Charlotte, who was confirmed two weeks ago.

On April 4, 1967, the serviceman completed a call from home to another young sister, Patty Jo Kalpis, on the occasion of her first communion.

By chance, an older sister of the sailor, Mrs. Barbara Robertson and two children, were visiting her parents home at 204 Iowa street when the telephone call came through last week and was able to talk with her brother.

Park Improvements Slated For 1968 Summer Season

Construction of a backdrop at the ball diamond at West Granite park, installation of fencing at the Worthen park ball diamond and installation of sidewalks and new barbecue grills at other locations are among improvements authorized by the Granite City Park board in winding up preparation for the spring and summer park program.

The board also has authorized purchase of equipment and supplies, further plans for the annual July 4 observance at Wilson park and is discussing tentative arrangements for a series of summer dances to be held in the Wilson park ice rink pavilion.

A new truck is being purchased on a low bid of $1764 submitted by Matthews Chevrolet Co. and also being purchased are a new tractor at $2549, a new mower at $445 and a new post hole digger at $228. All three purchases are being made from International Harvester Co. of Hazelwood, Mo., in response of two bidders on all items.

Let Fencing Contract
The backdrop at West Granite park will cost $1075 under a contract awarded the Cyclone Fence Co. of St. Louis, on the lowest of two bids. A contract has been awarded Granite City Glass Co. for installation of sidewalk fencing at the Worthen Park ball diamond at a cost of $226, fencing of the outfield at $1337 and fencing of the bleacher area at $720. The firm submitted the low bid for the work which will completely fence in the Worthen park diamond.

Other purchases include a dozen Compensate Grills at a cost of $26 each, two smaller type mowers for a total of $196, and a new lawnmower at a cost of $150 each, a new paint sprayer and compressor at a cost of $168 and six sets of drinking fountain hardware at $56 per set.

Forms for casting the concrete bases for new fountains were purchased several years ago, but installation was held up for purchase of hardware. Purchase of $197 worth of equipment for the recreation building also was approved.

A contract is to be signed with Illinois Fireworks Co. of Danville for the annual fireworks display at Wilson Park, at a cost of $1200.

To Contribute Flags
An offer of the Associated Retailers to contribute American flags and staffs to be used at Civic Park has been accepted. The number of flags has not been determined but is expected to range from five to ten. The park district is to install holders for the flag staffs and to put up and take down the flags for holidays and special occasions when flags are displayed.

Also accepted was an offer by an anonymous donor to provide two wrought iron benches for Civic Park.

A $25 added expenditure has been approved for reinforcing a section of the sidewalk being built under a joint park district-city-school district program. The sidewalk is being installed through the park from Yale drive to Niedringhaus school.

Reinforcement of the particular section was necessary because heavy trucks pass over it. Construction of a sidewalk from the park district office at Wilson park to the ice skating rink will be done by Leo Wolf Co. which presently holds the contract for other sidewalk work, including one to be built from the ice rink parking lot to the rink pavilion. The contractor's original low bid price of 55 cents per square foot will apply to the additional projects.

Payments of $500 by the park district toward the $3000 cost of installing a new parking lot at Parkview school was approved by the board since the park district owns the lot during the summer months. The parking lot is being installed by the school district.

The park district will hold its next regular meeting on April 24.

Building Permits In GC Total $11,765 for Week

Nine building permits, all but one of them for repairs or remodeling, were issued by Building Inspector Orville Delton last week for work with a total cost of $11,765. One permit for razing also was issued, involving cost estimated at $2400.

The only permit for new construction was issued to Levi Hamm, 2577 Spalding avenue, for construction of a carport at a cost of $1500.

The razing permit was issued to A. H. Seebold Co. for razing of the GM&O building at 20th street and the railroad tracks. Estimated cost of the razing work was fixed at $2400. Remodeling and repair permits issued included:

Albert Walton, 2714 Buxton avenue, constructing a basement under house at the Buxton avenue address, estimated cost $2000; installation of drive-in window issued to Thomas Smith, 2043 Madison avenue, $600; Frank Kraus, 2585 Spalding avenue, roofing repairs to cost $2500. William Metcalf Jr., 2112 Lindell blvd., for installation of siding, $1200; Gasen Drug Store, Nameoki Village shopping center, construction of a partition, $165; Alex Duccini, 2804 East 27th street, installation of siding, $1100; Fred Kunemann, 3001 Madison avenue, new roof, $1000; Bernard Sobol, 2118 Delmar avenue, siding repairs, $700.

Last week's total for improvement work was a slight increase over the $7450 worth of work authorized in seven building permits.

YMCA Adult Chess Club Seeking More Members

Quad-City adults interested in playing chess are invited to visit the local YMCA Chess Club on the next two Wednesday evenings, between 7 and 11 p.m. New members are being encouraged to join the group which was formed during the winter months.

About 12 members, ranging in age from 17 to 68, meet each Wednesday night in the YMCA club rooms and additional players are being sought to add to the interchange of challenges, Philip Bockiewicz, acting club chairman said today.

Adult players planning to visit the club are asked to bring with them a chess set and board to assure sufficient equipment is available for each session, the club official said.

Among them were persons from 43 cities in Illinois and 30 states in addition to guests from Hong Kong, England, Iceland and Tokyo.

During the year, two of the upstairs rooms of the Museum have been opened to the public as a memorial to Miss Edna Weir, who provided money in her will for the collection.

The period bedroom and library were remodeled, and a gift shop was opened.

Hours of the Museum, located at 515 North Main street, Edwardsville, are 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. Wednesdays and Fridays, 1 to 5 p.m. Saturdays and 2 to 5 p.m. Sundays.

The model for the unusual hair style was Miss Rebecca "Becky" Maxwell of Mt. Olive, Ill., who is a student at the school. The basket is formed with the model's own hair and is 13 inches high and 15 inches wide. The basket is covered with gold glitter, green glitter in the basket to resemble grass and eggs of hair colored red and blue.

Dr. Dayan, Two Aids Enter Innocent Pleas

Dr. Jack Dayan, 46, who operates offices in Granite City, Wood River and East St. Louis, and two assistants pleaded innocent Thursday in arraignments in Madison county circuit court to charges listed in indictments returned March 29 by the county grand jury.

Dr. Dayan was charged with aiding and abetting to treatment of ailments by his employees. The assistants are George Turner, 44, and his wife, Grace, who were charged with treatment of ailments without a license.

Trial was set for May 6 by Associate Judge Austin Lewis, and their defense attorney was given until April 22 to file any motions.

Dr. Dayan and Turner were named in two counts, and Mrs. Turner was named in one. The Turners were arrested March 11 by investigators of the division of narcotics of the Illinois Department of Public Safety. Agents of the division allegedly obtained drugs and had treatment for obesity prescribed by the Turners.

More Fund Transfers Slated for GC Council

Still more transfers of the dwindling sales tax reserve funds face Granite City council members at the 8 o'clock meeting this evening.

The four-page agenda lists two resolutions for transfer of a total of $57,000 sales tax with $30,000 to repay the working cash fund and $15,000 to go to the fire department, $500 to the sanitation department, $500 to the city hall fund, $1,000 to the humane department and $500 to the air pollution fund.

To recap, the council members also are to consider a revised municipal service occupation similar to the one adopted recently by the city of Venice and possibly regain that tax through complete coverage of all services. The state service tax amendment, limited to four businesses, was found to be unconstitutional by the Illinois Supreme Court.

The tax amounts to three-quarters of 1%.

The city has been advised by the revenue department, that its sales tax for January amounts to $34,178 and the motor fuel tax allotment for March totals $23,992.

In advance of the council session, a town board meeting will be held to consider bills and salaries.
